

ABSTRACT

A potentiometric sensor for wellbore applications having a 5 permanent aqueous contact between measuring and reference electrode, whereby contact is ensured by discharging the internal solution from the reference electrode directly onto a measuring (ion-sensitive) membrane and protecting the reference junction of the reference electrode with water wet porous 10 material, such as sintered glass. It is advantageously applied to oil-water mixtures under high pressure and/or temperature.

T01052 65061360